USING NIGHT SHIFTS

PREPARATIONS FOR OPENING OF FAIR REQUIRE WORKING OF MEN NIGHT AND DAY.

SEYMOUR'S BAND IS COMING

Organization Which Furnished Music Last Year Has Several Additional Soloists.

Preparations for the twenty-first annual exhibition at the Texas State Fair Grounds have reached that stage where night shifts are put on and it is announced that not a minute shall be lost in the effort to make this the greatest and most thorough of all of the annual shows—an example of those that are to come. After this week the grounds will be closed to visitors and every energy will be bent to the readiness for the opening days.

All of the fencing about the entire park has been completed and there is about the place that well-kept appearance that has at an earlier time been wanting. Near the entrance the fencing is of a rather ornamental nature and considerable work is under way in making the approaches to the grounds imposing, architecturally correct and pleasing to all beholders.

The old carriage entrance has been extended so as to come to the present front of the grounds. This driveway is of brick up to the driveway through the park. This brick approach is to be widened after this year so as to be forty feet in stretch. Over the entrance of this entrance way is to be suspended the large electric star with the letters of "Texas" in the five points and the "State Fair and Dallas Exposition" inscription at the center. This will be between ornamented poles with other electrical display and will be at a height of some twenty feet from the earth.

Terminals of the street railway in front of the entrance are approaching the finishing state. The "loop" has been completed and is now in use. Within it and on the grounds of the State Fair are five auxiliary tracks that are to be used for parking purposes. These will merge into a single track and this will have juncture with the main line on Exposition avenue.

From Armstrong and Exposition avenues to the main entrance all of the space is to be heavily graveled and will be sloped so as to drain quickly after a rain. From the loop track to the Administration Building, in a space as long as the front of the building, there will be a concrete platform. This will slope from the building line to the tracks and will never have any water, however heavy a rainfall may be. Within the main entrance there will be a slope of the concreting to the grounds, where a guttering will quickly remove all rainfall and will permit the flushing of the approaches in case mud and trash accumulate there.

From the Administration Building to the main Exposition Hall, the forty-foot concrete walk is about half done. It is promised that it shall be finished by Monday night. This will include the interior concreting of the Administration Building. At the same time the railing will be in place and the turnstiles will have been socketed and made ready for use.

On the northeastern side of the grounds is the carriage exit. This is a long stretch from the main Exposition Hall and the driveway from the racing stables to a point near the junction of Armstrong avenue and the Texas and Pacific Railway. It is being bulldozed and will be graveled. It is a driveway fifty feet in width.

All about the site of the old Administration Building and in the ten-foot space through the middle of the long main walk from the entrance, green growths and flowers are being placed. By the time of the opening, on Oct. 13, it is declared, this will appear as the other parts of the park—beautiful as if the work of a whole year.

At the poultry building the coops are ready for the fowls. The contract was let yesterday for the electric wiring that is expected to make the interior of the building as pleasant to visit by night as by day. Elbert Beeman, superintendent of this division, declares that entries already listed are twice as numerous as those at any previous Fair and many others are expected.

Preparations on track and stables have the unique distinction of being directed largely by a woman. Mrs. Frank E. Cobb ran visits daily the work about the paddocks and stables and the race track itself and, it is declared by Ben E. Cabell and Cornet Wheat, who have the matter immediately in charge, that no more efficient and versatile direction could be desired.

On Monday Cornet Wheat will make a tour of some of the towns of North Texas, as he has been asked to inspect a number of the harness and saddle horses at these points to declare if they are fit for the showing on the State Fair Grounds. There is already a great interest manifested in this department and he expects to find a lot of valuable material in his trip.

President James Moroney announces a meeting of the board of directors of the State Fair Association about Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

Seymour's Military Band of St. Louis, which gave such general satisfaction at the State Fair last year, will again furnish the band music this year. Speaking of this attraction, Capt. Sydney Smith, secretary of the Fair, said:

"When the Seymour Band arrives in Dallas it will be as strongly equipped with soloists as any military band in America. Bandmaster Seymour, who heads the solo list, will again charm the ears of the lovers of music, and those who heard his solos last year will welcome him back. Charles Colly, the clarinetist, is still with the band, and is sure to equal his success of last season. An acquisition of importance to the band is Leopold Broeckaert, the Belgian flute soloist, who has toured the world with the noted bands of Europe and played in all the great cities. Mr. Seymour says he is a wonder.

"Bandmaster Seymour, in a letter received today, says: 'Esmahilda, the lady saxophonist and violinist, who will accompany me to Dallas, is a phenomenal musician, and I am satisfied she will prove a grand artistic success at the Fair, not to mention that she will be a novelty, as nothing like her has ever appeared in Texas.'

"In addition to the Swedish baritone soloist, and Frederick Schmidt, the German euphonium player, are also to accompany the band on the road and to present daily solos on their respective instruments.

"Bandmaster Seymour reports that his orchestra has mastered the music it will play in support of the oratory of 'The Messiah' and of the drama of 'Hiawatha,' as well as all other special music it is under contract to produce at the Fair."

The Thompson Scenic Company has completed much of the special scenery for the drama of "Hiawatha," and the oratorio of "The Messiah," which will be given at the State Fair. "The scenery for "Hiawatha" is very elaborate. Much of it, especially that for the storm scene in the first act, is transparent, and intended to be worked by calcium lights and electricity in producing the flashes of lightning during the fearful storm at night, and the mild light of the sun as he rises in a serene sky in the morning following.

COUNTY BAPTISTS IN SESSION.

Fifth Sunday Meeting Began Last Night at McKinney Avenue Baptist Church—Today's Program.

The Fifth Sunday meeting of the Dallas County Baptists convened last night at the McKinney Avenue Baptist Church. The meetings will continue through today and tomorrow.

The opening sermon was preached last night by Dr. J. B. Gambrell. The program for today follows:

9:30 a. m.—"County Work," presented by S. J. Penn, Charles R. Poole, L. M. T. Shook and J. J. Ponder.

11 a. m.—"State Missions," Dr. George W. Truett.

2:30 p. m.—"City Work," R. H. Coleman.

3:30 p. m.—"State Work and Field Workers," Mrs. J. B. Gambrell.

4:30 p. m.—"Woman's Work," Mrs. Tyree Bell.

8 p. m.—Sermon by Rev. W. A. Hamlett of the Gaston Avenue Baptist Church.

HAGENBECK SHOWS IN TEXAS.

Big Circus Was at Gainesville Yesterday—Will Reach Dallas Sunday Morning.

"The Hagenbeck shows are in Texas and reports from our people say that it has been favorably received at Gainesville, where they played today," said Sherman Danby, press representative of the show, last night. "The show will be in Fort Worth tomorrow and will come over to Dallas Saturday night and be unloaded on the usual circus lot in East Dallas Sunday morning and by noon the tents will be up and the show people will have a day of rest.

"Hagenbeck carries a large herd of elephants and these are used in many ways in the labor of handling the great quantities of heavy materials. All of them are trained and are 'work' elephants. Those anxious to see this novel feature of the practical use of elephants should be on the circus lot as soon after breakfast as possible. These huge animals push the big wagons into place by their foreheads, literally butting them along.

"During the day visitors will have a good opportunity of seeing many interesting things about a big circus.

"In the morning the animal cages will be open and during the day the Hindoos will show visitors some of the tricks of the East.

PARADE BY TRAVELING MEN.

This Feature for Day at Fair Is Decided Upon—Knights of the Grip Are Talking State Fair.

Traveling Men's Day at the Dallas Fair is attracting the notice and the talk of the drummers all over the State. The day set for the knights of the grip is Saturday, Oct. 20. It is expected that there will be a large turnout of the traveling men.

Jeff D. Mershon of Dallas is in charge of the committee on arrangements, and declares that he is receiving encouragement from all of the traveling men who make Dallas even when he sees on his rounds of the State. It is planned to have a parade in the forenoon, as usual, and the rest of the time is to be spent in the way traveling men like, a sort of resting and social time in which as many as can will be brought together.

Price Cross has recently returned from a month in New York and points East. He says that there is no place in the country where Dallas and the Fair are not known and talked about. Apparently every man one meets, he says, knows something or other to make at least a visit to Texas.

"From New York to Galveston I made the trip on the Mallory line," said Mr. Cross. "We were in that fearful storm off Galveston in which so much destruction was done to shipping. As soon as we left Sandy Hook it was evident that we were in for it. For more than three days, beginning on Saturday night, we having left port early on Friday, there was so much rough weather that fully 75 per cent of the passengers preferred to stay in their rooms. Yet there was a time on Sunday morning at an early hour when the sea went into the portholes and made the state rooms so wet that passengers wrapped in blankets sought the social room, and some did not even have the blankets. They were so unhappy that they cared not who saw and would have been relieved, I believe, had the ship gone to the bottom.

"But this was soon over. The rest of the voyage was delightful, and especially that portion of it through the Gulf.

"And as soon as we got into Texas again we heard about the Fair. I met traveling men in Galveston, Houston and elsewhere in the State and they all talked of making their rounds so as to be in Dallas during at least a part of the Fair, and on Traveling Men's Day by all means."

Five Thousand Buttons.

Five thousand buttons have been prepared and many of them have been distributed in furtherance of Traveling Men's Day at the Dallas Fair. These are buttons about one and one-quarter inches in diameter. In the center is a traveling man's grip with the letters "T. M. D." Above it is the word "Saturday." Below is the date, "October 20." Around the edge of the button is the statement, "Traveling Men's Day, Texas State Fair."

The buttons are being distributed from State Fair headquarters and from the offices of the various traveling men's organizations.

North Dallas Association of Citizens Did Not Meet Last Night.

The meeting of the North Dallas Citizens' Association scheduled for last night at the Trinity Methodist Church was not held for the reason that matters affecting the welfare and interest of the association are to be conducted by the committee of fifty and the subcommittee of five, recently appointed for that purpose.

The subcommittee of five has prepared its report to be signed by the chairman of the committee of fifty, and it is to the effect that they have had an interview with Chief of Police Brandenburg, who has assured them that steps will be taken at once to remove all objectionable characters from North Dallas. With that end in view the co-operation of all good citizens of that section of the city is requested in order that such parties may be ferreted out and reported to Chief Brandenburg.

Grand Jury Adjourns Today.

Tipperary Beer

THE REAL THING

Being Temperate

Doesn't mean denying yourself absolutely something that you enjoy and in whose moderate use there is no harm. Temperance to use a plain definition, is the exercising of good common sense in eating and drinking.

There are millions of temperate people who drink Beer and are benefited by its use.

TIPPERARY BEER

Contains only a slight percentage of alcohol, but it has lots of barley malt—a food-and-hops-at-tonic. It is a wholesome drink and a temperance drink.
