CITY NEWS.

The Canadian Rockies.

"Foreign America" has a delightful sound to people planning a summer trip who can not afford or do not care to take an ocean trip, and the opinion is steadily gaining ground that the only sensible course is to see and learn about the wonders of our own continent before visiting those of the rest of the world.

It is only of recent years that an appreciation has begun to dawn upon us that right across the border, in British Columbia, lies a region which has been aptly described as "fifty Switzerlands in one." Gigantic snow-capped peaks, mountain-climbing as exciting as that in the Alps, glaciers and great rivers, mighty canyons, emerald lakes, and, above all, the clear, blue sky of the Canadian Rockies.

Throughout the whole of this wonderland are excellent hotels and chalets, affording the tourist every comfort and convenience in whatever way he may prefer to spend his vacation time.

The Canadian Pacific Railway, which traverses this region, has issued a handsome, illustrated booklet, descriptive of many of these most interesting features, which may be had on application to any railway office or the Canadian Pacific ticket agent. T. J. Barnes, 725 Olive street, St. Louis.

"What you need," said the wordy medic in his pompous way, "is an enlargement of your daily round, a wider circle of activity."

"Meeby that's right," said the patient. "I'm a bareback rider in a one-ring circus."

GIRLS DRILL AS SAILORS

SUMMER SCHOOL PUPILS WEAR "MIDDY" SUITS AND KIMONOS OF OWN MAKE.

BOYS WIN HAMMOCK PRIZES

Baptist and Presbyterian Children Unite in Exhibit of Sewing and Basket Handiwork.

Wearing white "middy" suits they had made themselves, the "Markham girls" of the vacation summer school gave a "sailors' drill" as one of the numbers yesterday morning at the commencement exercises of these nine schools—six of them Presbyterian and three Baptist. Another set of girls had fashioned gay kimonos, and in them they gave a Japanese drill.

The sewing exhibits, although varied and thorough, were only a small part of the numerous industries which these 2000 children—1500 Presbyterian and 500 Baptist—have wrought during the summer. There were handsome baskets of all sizes, designs and colors, and the children's own ingenuity in inventing shapes showed much talent. Hammocks were a strong feature of the exhibits. Arthur Rolling of the Niedringhaus School, who won first prize for a hammock, was proudly exhibiting his award—a baseball catcher's glove. A league ball went to Charles Peters of the Victor Street Mission, as second prize in hammock-making, and a baseball bat, third prize, to Roland Talmake of Markham School.

A hammock made by Harry Voepel of the Tabernacle Baptist School will be sent to New York for exhibition in the National Children's Bazar in November and December. Master Voepel won the honor prize with his hammock.

Ten children of the Third Street School received prizes for not missing a session of the six weeks of school. In the basketry work, among the Presbyterian children Victoria Kethowska of Niedringhaus School, displayed a string of coral beads as her first prize; the second, a doll, went to Rosa Camarda of Boyle Center. The boys also made baskets and won—Willie Jeude of the Victor Street School a watch and Edwin Ruckmann of Greeley Memorial a boy scout knife.

The girls of the Baptist schools who won sewing prizes were Mary Pickakoska of the Italian section, her prize being a necklace, and second, Viola Zelle of the Tabernacle, who received a checkboard set. In these schools in basketry there were prizes to Katie Ulrich of the Tabernacle, and Rosa Flynn of the Fourth Baptist School. In hammock work the Baptist children Who won prizes were Elmer Bloecker of the Fourth Baptist and Jake Zimmermann of the Italian station.

In the Presbyterian schools in sewing a pearl necklace went to Gladys Barrett of the Markham School, first prize; a pair of silver bangle bracelets to Hilda Germond of the Victor Street School, second, and a silver thimble to Daisy Vasel of the Greeley School, third.

Mrs. E. Rowe of New York, the supervisor of the summer schools, was surprised by the children on the platform with a gift of a large bouquet of roses. Rev. George W. King, superintendent of the schools, presided, and made a short talk. Rev. Dr. H. B. Boving, president of Westminster College, conducted the opening exercises. Rev. Dr. J. H. Gauss was introduced as president of the new Bible Training School about to be started. There were many pretty and entertaining drills and songs by the children, including a "Flag Salute" with national hymns.

CAVE-INS FATAL TO ONE: TWO LABORERS ARE HURT.

Michael Godfrey Dies After Being Dug Out of Sewer Trench—Others Rescued at Garden.

Michael Godfrey, 50 years old, of 1317 North Nineteenth street, a laborer, was almost instantly killed yesterday morning when the earth surrounding a sewer excavation in which he was working at Spring and Russell avenues collapsed, burying him several feet. Fellow-laborers dug out Godfrey and called an ambulance, but he died en route to the City Hospital. The body was sent to the Morgue.

While digging a trench in Shaw's Garden yesterday morning Albert James, 23 years old, 4216 Hunt avenue, and George Davis, 17 years old, 3968 Blaine avenue, were buried under falling earth.

The men were digging at a depth of about 6 feet. The earth, loosened by recent rains, completely buried them. Other laborers in a moment dug out the men. Hurried examination by physicians showed that except for a few bruises and sprained ankles they were uninjured. They were taken to their homes after receiving medical attention.

SETS MOYNIHAN HEARING

ONE THOUSAND CLAIMANTS ARE ASKED TO APPEAR IN COURT SEPTEMBER 10.

EASTERN WOMAN IN ARENA

Files Letter She Says Was Written to Her as Cousin of Eccentric Recluse.

Another claimant to the $60,000 estate of Jeremiah Moynihan, teamster and recluse, who died January 8, 1910, filed her name in the Circuit Court yesterday. She is Mrs. Nancy Shanahan of 66 Avon avenue, Lawrence, Mass., and her name was placed at the foot of a roll of nearly 1000 persons who aver they are relatives of the eccentric Irishman.

Mrs. Shanahan alleges she is Moynihan's cousin, and her attorney, Thomas D. Cannon, filed a letter purporting to have been written to her by Moynihan. It is dated St. Louis, September 15, 1908, and reads:

Dear Cousin—I was very glad to hear that you were alive and well and in good health. I am, indeed. I never expect to hear from you and I would not, but the trip the girls made is a good thing that you were so fixt it is very nice to take a trip across to the old country. Everything so different from this country. This is the best of them all.

Excuse this letter. I am a poor hand to write. I never went to school much. I will close, say good-bye, hoping to hear from you soon. With the best wishes for your family futures health, I remain yours ever. From Cousin Jerry Moynihan to Mrs. Nancy Shanahan.

Learned of "Kinship" Abroad.

Mrs. Shanahan, according to Cannon, visited Ireland in 1908 and learned of her relationship to Moynihan. Her mother then wrote to him, Cannon says.

All claimants to the estate have been ordered to appear in the Probate Court September 10. They include six women, who aver they are widows of the teamster; twenty-five alleged children, forty brothers and sisters, and scores of cousins, nieces, nephews, uncles and aunts.

Glen Adonis Gilbert of Galena, Ill., recently filed a will, said to be Moynihan's, in the Probate Court. It is stated Gilbert is his son and leaves him his entire estate.

OPEN FIGHT TO WIN MEET OF COMMISSARY MANAGERS.

Nearly 200 St. Louis Boosters May Go to Cincinnati to Plead for 1913 Convention.

Members of the St. Louis Sales Managers' Association yesterday at the Mercantile Club discussed plans and expressed hope of bringing to St. Louis the 1913 annual convention of the Commissary Managers' Association of the United States, which will meet next Tuesday to Friday at Cincinnati, Ohio. The affair will take about 1000 commissary managers to the convention place and it was declared such a convention would assist largely in boosting St. Louis-made goods. The convention was held in St. Louis in 1911.

Elaborate preparations have been made for the convention by the St. Louis delegation, which will leave on a special train at 11 p. m. Monday over the Pennsylvania. Robert E. Lee, secretary of the Sales Managers' Association, has charge of the delegation and yesterday announced nearly 200 persons would go. More than sixty commissary managers from various parts of the country will accompany the delegation.

Lee has issued for the trip souvenirs including fans, buttons and cigar advertisements, all telling of the merits of St. Louis. About 2000 cigars will be taken along. H. B. Gordon presided at the meeting yesterday and said preparations were being made to insure the success of the Made-in-St. Louis show at the Coliseum early in September. All the retail dry goods stores will have special displays in their windows, it was announced.

ASKS CABANNE WAR BALM

MRS. CLARA MANGER FILES SUIT FOR $70,000 DAMAGES AGAINST NEIGHBORS.

DEFENDANTS WILL RESIST

Humiliation of Alleged False Arrest and Trial in Justice Court Basis of Action.

A neighborhood war reached its climax when Mrs. Clara Manger of 5720 Von Versen avenue brought suit in the Circuit Court for $70,000 damages against Mr. and Mrs. J. Goode Cabanne of 5646 Von Versen avenue and ten other residents of the vicinity. The suit is the outgrowth of quarrels between the Cabanne and Manger children.

Mrs. Manger, the wife of F. H. Manger, manager of the Fred Harvey restaurants in St. Louis, sues because of alleged false arrest. The arrest grew out of Cabanne's efforts to have Mrs. Manger placed under a bond to keep the peace. The suit afterward was dismissed for lack of prosecution.

In her petition Mrs. Manger avers she was "imprisoned for four hours until she could give bail for $100," May 17. She suffered mental anguish through the publication of the details in the newspapers, she asserts, and asks $25,000 actual and $10,000 punitive damage.

Unprosecuted Case Is Cited.

The second count avers Cabanne and the other defendants caused her to be taken before Constable Moore and charged with threatening the life of Cabanne's children, J. Goode Cabanne, Jr., and Olive Cabanne, by saying she would slap and maim them and do them bodily harm. The suit was dismissed July 23 for lack of prosecution, and she asks $25,000 actual and $10,000 punitive damages.

Alleged attacks on the Cabanne children by Marjorie Manger, 11 years old, began the row. Other features were a fist fight in Union Station between Cabanne and Manger, the arrest of Mrs. Cabanne on a charge of slapping Marjorie Manger and her acquittal in the Wyoming Street Police Court, and a trial of the peace bond suit, which resulted in a hung jury.

Defendants in the suit are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene C. Dreyer, H. Vest Lancaster, Joseph Lolpman, Edmund J. Bingle, Monroe Price and J. Goode Cabanne and Lillian C. Cabanne.

Mrs. Cabanne said she and other neighbors will resist the suit to the last.

ALLEGES MISMANAGEMENT; ASKS JEWELRY RECEIVER.

Stockholder Pleads Barnes-Smith Mercantile Company Officials Have Salaries Cut.

A second suit arising out of alleged mismanagement of affairs of the Barnes-Smith Mercantile Company, jewelry dealers, was filed in the Circuit Court yesterday by Robert Taylor, owner of eighty shares of stock. The suit is brought against J. W. Barnes, who owns 350 shares; T. K. Smith, 200, and Edward H. Ziehme, 350. It asks that Barnes and Ziehme be restrained from drawing salaries in excess of $2100 a year each and prays a receiver be appointed for the company, if necessary. The first suit, filed by Smith, asked the appointment of a receiver.

The company was incorporated January 8, 1908, with a capital stock of $100,000. It did a business of $200,000 the second year, Taylor avers. Barnes and Ziehme conspired to defraud the stockholders and render the stock vauleless by appropriating the stock of the concern to their own use, he alleges.

When the business was started it was agreed that Barnes and Ziehme should draw annual salaries of $2100 each, he recites. Since then they have voted themselves salaries of $1000 a month each, he avers.

Taylor asks an accounting of the profits of the company and prays that Barnes and Ziehme be restrained from wasting the profits and funds and be suspended from office on proof of misconduct.

Barnes is ill in the Deaconess Hospital. Ziehme declined to discuss the suit.
