

Beef to Roast

Why not try the roasts we are selling for 8, 10 and 12c per pound, cut from the best corn fed cattle. They are money makers for you, weighing from 3 to 6 lbs each.

8c. 10c and 12c lb

Corned Beef

4c lb We make this our beater; try it all! 4c lb

VEGETABLES

New Cabbage, Spinach, Lettuce, Radishes, Cucumbers, Asparagus, Winter Butterhead Lettuce, Spanish and Bermuda Onions, Leeks, Parsley, Celery, Dandelions, Carrots and Purslane.

Tel 331-1 890 WOOD & COYLE 22 City Sq.

Across the Footlights

"Peck's Bad Boy."

The musical comedy success "Peck's Bad Boy" will be presented here Saturday, April 6. The play comes with an audience of 1,000 from all the principal cities which has visited and is bound to repeat.

John Craig to Appear in This City.

Following the most successful season of 38 weeks at the Bijou theatre in Boston, John Craig, the company, is now on a limited tour of some of the larger cities around Boston and this most versatile aggregation of players will be seen at the theatre in this city on Tuesday, April 9.

Mr. Craig's company is one of the most remarkable that ever has played in Boston and is won over by the public. The company has been selected with the greatest care and such plays as have been produced during the winter have been from those which were high in the respective spheres of theatrical literature. Each one has been staged with an eye to perfect symmetry so far as perfection of stage management is concerned. In this respect Mr. Craig has won a reputation second to none among stock companies.

The season of this company began at the Globe theatre last July and it was Mr. Craig's intention to keep New York to itself to testify today, the plaintiff in the Lou Dillon-Major Delmar gold cup suit completed its case, and the defense began the introduction of testimony yesterday.

Robert McCullough, a veterinarian, testifying for the plaintiff, in answer to a hypothetical question, based on a hypothetical situation, asked the trial said that in his opinion the more referred to in the question did not stop from natural causes on the day of the race, and that the racing stock received must have been affected.

Ex-Judge Corne, in his opening ad-

THE SPORTING WORLD

DEFENCE IS ON

IN LOU DILLON CASE

HUFF DECLINES,
TAYLOR SEEKS STAHLGANS SIGNS CONTRACT
TO FIGHT HARRY LEWIS

WASHINGTON PLAYER MAY MANAGE THE BOSTONS.

THIRTEEN INNING GAME PLAYED AT ST. LOUIS

Boston Nationals Give Tufts Boys Some More Exercise—Davis Signs With White Sox—McBreen Gets a Big Stuffed Petition.

URBANA, Ill., April 5.—"Pettibone" Nelson lost his chance for the next try at the lightweight championship yesterday when he was confronted by Gans and refused to sign articles calling for a fight at 133 pounds ring-side.

Gans immediately signed articles with Harry Lewis for a championship battle, the fight to be fought within the next 100 days.

GANS IMMEDIATELY SIGNED ARTICLES WITH HARRY LEWIS FOR A CHAMPIONSHIP BATTLE, THE FIGHT TO BE FOUGHT WITHIN THE NEXT 100 DAYS.

Consolidated Fights New Trolley Line

NEW YORK & BOSTON ELECTRIC LINE IMPERIAL MONOPOLY—R. I. LOCATION SOUGHT.

Manager Joe Cantillon of the Washington has knocked off his mustache, and now looks like a youth of 23.

George Doyen, the manager of the White Sox, has signed a contract to play. George probably has a hat or a suit of clothes up with John King's.

Because Elmer Flick has returned to the Cleveland field Addie Joss is especially well pleased. "They don't make any better fielders than Elmer," said Addie.

Mal Eason, the Brooklyn pitcher, gives promise of a good season this year. He is in better condition than any other pitcher with the Superiors.

Fred Clarke has changed his mind about managing the Pittsburgh from the Boston team. He has been invited to inquire into the eligibility of all the Harvard baseball, track and crew.

The investigation, which has been in progress for over a month, consists in writing to the principal and coaches of the athletics preparatory schools, asking for information concerning the funds of athletics received by the teams.

In case it is discovered that the Harvard man received a nickel from an admiring old gentleman on the 10th anniversary of his graduation for knocking a home run, his chances of making the Harvard nine are spoiled.

The athletic law at Harvard bars a man for "receiving a compensation of any sort at any time from any athletic participation," and at Harvard they do things strictly according to the letter of the law.

If a track man went down to the D street gymnasium and won anything more valuable than a gilted cup, he would be asked to give satisfaction that he did not care to take the long trip to Mexico.

PHILADELPHIA AT IT.

The Philadelphia Nationals defeated the Philadelphia Americans yesterday, 4 to 1. Corrida held the Americans down to two hits.

Thirteen Innings.

The first long game of the season occurred at St. Louis yesterday when the Americans defeated the Nationals, 1 to 0, in 13 innings. Powell had 10 strikeouts.

Railing Signs With Bluffton.

RICHMOND, Ind., April 5.—Tom Dickey, the pitcher released by the Boston Americans after his first game, has signed with the Bluffton (Ind.) team.

Use of Names Not Authorized.

Hugh McBride, the manager, received a petition from about 25 typewritten signatures, attached, requesting the Boston American club to hang on to Freddie Parent. Upon investigation it was discovered that the names were used without authority.

Other Games Yesterday.

At Charlottesville, Va.—University of Virginia 5, U. of P. 2.

At Tuscaloosa, Ala.—University of Alabama 4, Vanderbilt University 1.

At Lynchburg, Va.—Montreal 4, E. L. 5.

At Atlanta, Ga.—Atlanta 10, Brooklyn 5.

At Indianapolis—Indianapolis 4, Washington (A. L.) 3.

AUTO NOTES

What is generally regarded as the largest day's shipment of automobiles ever received in New York city were the 1917 trim looking 18-20 horse power. Reo touring cars received by W. M. Owen, the manager of the New York Reo, that popular model is frequently received in quantities of fifteen cars in a shipment, but owing to the unusual number which came with the favoritism of pleasure wearers and the favorable condition of the roads, it has been found necessary to double the customary order for shipment. There is a uniform good feeling among Reo dealers all along the line, and the reason is that the Reo Motor Car Co. is making in strict accordance with the guarantees made in October last.

It is reported that the United States Post Office has issued a circular to employees to car for mail collection in all large cities. In experimental service the machines have proven dependable and given superior speed and economy.

The postoffice department has consented to the use of automobiles on rural free delivery routes. Credit for this consent is largely due to the Walling Co.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the most draws the right to bet the last game of the game, which is the Cuban's.

Willie Keefer of the New York Zellers, the American department store, was not called strike either. Keefer

took the Cuban to invent a new way of betting on baseball games. They are inverted gamblers and won to hold their own. And no such men are seen in America. They not with hands, feet and lungs. Every Cuban has a bet on the game. The favorite method is to bet on slips of paper, then in a hat, each man chipping in a certain amount as in a race. Each one draws and the one getting the