

"Good Individual Tailoring at the Price of Non-Individual Ready-made"

$5 Trousers Free With Suit or Overcoat

The once-a-season event that means so much to thousands of our customers who have learned to look forward to it.

It's bona-fide. A pair of REAL $5 all-worsted trousers made to measure and given FREE with any suit or overcoat at $17.50 or over.

Bona-fide because no prices are advanced, because none can be reduced without the extra trousers, because the workmanship is unexcelled, because the service never changes, because no goods are reserved. What imitator can say as much?

Suits and Overcoats to Order $15, $17½, $20, $22, $25, $28½

OPTIONAL CHOICES: Instead of the extra trousers we will make a fancy vest, of any goods in stock, free; or you can have a real $3 rubberized raincoat—made by the same people who make our matchless $10 and $15 raincoats. Either of these—or the trousers—free, for a short time only, with suits and overcoats at $17.50 and over.

Special Note: This "Sale" began Saturday, November 22. The offer of gratis trousers, fancy vest or raincoat does not and cannot apply to orders booked before that date. This is our invariable—and obviously very necessary—rule; please do not ask us to break it.

All clothes made by us pressed and kept in repair free of charge for an entire year. Dry Cleaning (Suits and Overcoats) $1.

RAILROAD HEAD WILL DEVOTE TIME TO AIDING FARMERS

Retiring President of N. Y. C. Believes Much Can Be Done.

Must Increase Production or Import Necessities, Says W. C. Brown.

Would Double Rural Population and More Than Double Output of Farms.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—A new factor will enter the agricultural life of the nation on Jan. 1, when William C. Brown, head of the New York Central system, voluntarily leaves his place at the top of the railroad world to become a farmer-crusader. In his sixtieth year, and still at the height of his powers, he will take into the campaign he is planning to increase the wealth of the farmers and the supply of food for the nation, a brain and personal force which have carried him from the bottom to his present high place. He will be the strongest recruit the "back-to-the-farm" movement has ever won.

Mr. Brown is not planning to "retire" and be a "gentleman farmer." Far from it. He has a vision of great things to be done, not for his farm, but for farmers; better education, better methods, better farms and better living. He has not yet fully outlined all that he has in mind, but he has indicated that he plans a campaign to induce the government to put far more force and brains than ever before into agricultural development.

"Bill" Brown left a farm in Iowa 40 odd years ago with thousands of other boys, and found a place at the bottom of the railroad ladder. During those 40 years he has worked steadily, and nearly 10 years since took his place at the head of the biggest system in America. He has in charge of the rebuilding and reorganization of the great Central station in New York, at a cost running into the hundreds of millions, and from his office window today he looks over yards with hundreds of miles of tracks, the latest electrical installation and the last word in railroad efficiency.

But he looks beyond, and sees the farms, producing far below what they should, the cost of food for the masses increasing by leaps, the farm so poor a place to live that it seems impossible to give it the place it should have in modern industry. And he has abandoned the railway office for the frame farm house he owns back in Iowa.

"Unless we increase our production, and soon," he said recently, in discussing his plans, "we must face the fact that in five years we will not be able to supply the food for our own use. For a century and a half we have been recklessly exploiting our natural resources, moving west when our western methods had ruined the land on which we were living. There is no more room to move. The acreage under cultivation can hardly be increased. No danger which has ever confronted the nation compares with this danger of inadequate food supply. Herein lies the farmer's marvelous opportunity and his solemn duty. We are trustees, holding this land as a sacred trust for generations yet to come."

"I would double the rural population and more than double the product of the nation's farms. After long years of discouraging struggle the farmer is about to come into his own, and his prosperity will inaugurate the new era."

The government is now building every year great battleships which cost over $10,000 each, and a million a year each to maintain. The price of one—just one—of these battleships would establish and fully equip two splendid experimental farms of 40 acres each in every state of the Union. They would soon be followed by 100-acre state farms in every county.

"These farms, once established, would not only give the farmer a splendid profit, but they would be almost beyond comprehension. Let the government follow up this work for 10 years and the value that will have been added to each year's crop would buy all the battleships in the world."

FIND FIREMAN'S BODY IN CINDER PIT

Workmen in Wabash Yards Identify Corpse; Foul Play Feared.

The body of Joseph Chumal, fireman on the Wabash railroad, was discovered yesterday afternoon in the cinder pit at the Wabash roundhouse. The man had evidently been dead since Friday and his body buried beneath the cinders. Two bad bruises were found by Coroner Rothacker on his forehead and cheek, making the belief strong that Chumal met with foul play. The fact that he left his home Friday with $9 in his pockets and when he was found there were but 15 cents strengthens the belief.

As the huge clam scoop used to empty the pits at the roundhouse of cinders was about to empty a load on a high pile, the jaws opened and the body of Chumal was dropped from high in the air to the cinder pile. August Landgraf was the first to see it and he immediately identified it as that of Chumal.

The cinder pile lies between the rails near the roundhouse and is about ten feet deep. The engines dump their fire as they pass over them. It is thought several engines dumped their fire over Chumal's body after it was thrown into the pit.

Chumal resided at 314 Lawndale avenue and his landlady said when he left the house Friday evening he said he had $9 with him, and that he was going to pay a man $10 he owed.

FATHER OF WILLARD K. BUSH IS DEAD

Deceased Prominent Citizen of Genesee County.

FENTON, Mich., Nov. 24.—Henry Franklin Bush is dead at his home in Fenton after an illness of six weeks of colorful meningitis. Several years ago he was in partnership in business with the late J. L. Hudson at Ionia. In 1887 he came to Gaines and for years was the leading merchant and capitalist at Genesee county, outside of the city of Flint. For the last 20 years he has resided in Fenton, where for a time he was proprietor of the Fenton mills. He was born in Deerfield, Livingston county, May 26, 1837. He was a member of Fenton commandery, K. No. 14, and other Masonic bodies. In 1879 he was married to Miss Adeline O. Wyles, of Gaines, who survives him. He also leaves three sons, Willard K. Bush, of Detroit; Dr. Frank J. Bush, of Philadelphia; and Howard K. Bush, of Armada, and one daughter, Miss Bernice Bush, of Detroit.

BIGGEST CHRISTMAS TREE FOR CHILDREN OF CHICAGO POOR

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Grant park is to be turned into a fairyland Christmas Eve for the children of the poor. They are to have a mammoth Christmas tree, perhaps the largest ever used for the purpose. The committee in charge of the arrangements announced today they would not be satisfied with a tree less than 75 feet high.

It is to stand in the center of the park on a broad pedestal, covered with frost and illuminated by hundreds of colored electric lights.

Widely known artists and architects are collaborating on a decorative scheme. The festival will begin at sundown with the ringing of chimes in the Art Institute. A great chorus will sing carols on the terrace of the institute. Then a rocket will signal the illumination of the trees.

POINCARÉ'S DAUGHTER GOES ON BALLOON TRIP; LANDS IN GERMANY

PINCHOT TO OPPOSE PENROSE FOR SENATE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Gifford Pinchot, former United States forest and game commissioner, will oppose Senator Dole Penrose for election to the upper house of the national legislature, according to gossip in congressional circles here. "Pinchot" will run on the progressive ticket, relying on the strong Pennsylvania Roosevelt vote to carry him to victory.
