SOLDIERS STILL GUARD SLATON

Atlanta, Ga., June 28.—Though there have been no outward manifestations of disorder, martial law continued to-day to prevail in the vicinity of former Governor Slaton's country residence because of the tense feeling in some quarters against his action in commuting the sentence of Leo M. Frank.

Four hundred militiamen still are on duty and a strong guard is kept day and night around the residence of the former executive.

Only one arrest has been mad since Saturday night in this connection. An aged civilian persisted in loitering around the premises of Mr. Slaton and he was arrested, but was released on his promise to not return to that vicinity.

Ex-Governor Slaton has been visited by many friends and supporters who warmly commend his action.

SCALDS ARE FATAL TO CHILD
