

Nature's Storehouse of Health

THE wide-spreading grain fields draw from the good, brown earth the nourishing elements that sustain the human body. In good bread and in wholesome, well-brewed and well-aged P. B. Ale and P. B. Lager you get these sustaining elements in their most nourishing form.

There's no better tonic than P. B. Ale or P. B. Lager. They are delightful, mild beverages which aid digestion, promote sleep and build up a healthy body. They are made with the same care and cleanliness that the good housewife uses in making her bread.

Ask for a glass of P. B. Ale, drawn from the special P. B. faucet that you will quickly learn to recognize. Tell your dealer to send a case to your home each week.

Look for the
P. B. Faucet

Ask any P. B. bottle dealer for our booklet "A Dozen Tasty Dishes by A Dozen Famous Chefs." He'll be glad to give you a copy.

Providence—Served at the Crown Hotel, on draught at the Hotel Lincoln; J. P. Corcoran & Co., 45 Olneyville Sq.; John S. Fier, 377 Admiral St.; W. V. McGinn & Co., 71 Exchange Pl.; N. J. Scheuren & Co., 414 Broad St.; E. J. Schneider & Co., 17 Peck St. In bottles from John Carrazzo & Co., 75 Fountain St.; W. E. Ryan & Co., 48 Union St. Central Falls—On draught at Charles Stadnifski & Co., 411 High St. In bottles from Joseph A. Hebert, 474 Broad St. Cumberland—In bottles from Arthur J. Desjarlais, Mendon Road. Narragansett Pier—On draught at the Central Hotel, Newport—On draught at Walter Fisher, 114 Thames St. Pawtucket—In bottles from William Murdock & Co., 17 Railroad avenue. Woonsocket—On draught at William Garneau & Co., 612 Clinton St.; W. M. Gauvreau & Co., 34 High St.; P. Mailloux & Co., 48 Cumberland St.; Thomas F. Mitchell & Co., 281 High St.; the Pioneer Distributing Co., South Main St. In bottles from the Pioneer Distributing Co., 608 Clinton St.

Ale-Lager

Bunker Hill Breweries, Boston, Mass., Est. 1821