David Crockett is attending the University of Oklahoma. His old "Indian Shubin" ancestor used to think the only advantage a young man needed had to do with the rifle. But life as it is, isn't such as it was.

Mrs. Emma Giffman, Baltimore, Md., was given a divorce from her husband after testifying that he had beaten her from one to six times every day. "I like six beatings a day is too much for any wife," she observed. "Six times too much," the judge said.

Chambers' new English Dictionary contains a number of new words that came into use in the past year or two, as for example: Bus—An airplane. Cold Feet—To be in a funk. Did—No good. Erewash—Humbug. Lingham—Any number. Old Dean—An old fellow. Coach—A conscientious selector. Top Role—The very best.

Yat-Yat. Miss Ethel Tait married her second cousin, Elmer Tait, at Boston.

Schultze in the Wild and woolly Residences of Cody, Wyo., are not entirely weaned of their primitive traditions. When Mr. and Mrs. Fred Melroe were about to board a train there on their honeymoon their friends decided that they should be joined literally as well as spiritually and legally. Security, happiness, the wedding party looked them into the eyes of the bride couple and helped them aboard the train.

It is an ill wind that blows no good. CONSTANTINOPLE—The high cost of living has compelled Turks to reduce the size of their harems. Some Moslems hesitate taking even one wife.

"Shimmy dancing" is decried by the American Association of Dancing Masters "as a vibrating, jerking of the upper body while taking short steps, or standing still."

It is rather discouraging when one has done his best to be an early Christmas shopper to find that he has done it early leaves plenty of time for the purchase of gifts you otherwise wouldn't have thought of.

Which should be the more thankful, the billionaire near the end of life, or the beggar's child at the beginning of life?

Where you find the very richest you also find the very poorest.

This would be a finer world if only those who could do better were permitted to find fault with the way it has been done.

PETER TREATS THE TWINS.

BY THE STORY LADY. The twins were celebrating the first afternoon after school by taking a long nap. Peter, who had a new respect for the twin since they were really big enough, so the school asked to take some of his own money and go to the store and get them candy.

He came back with a big sack full and without touching it himself sat down to wait for the twin to wake. But the twin were worn out with the excitement of their day at school and slept on.

Peter paced from the nursery to the girls' bedroom till Mamma begged him to take some of the candy himself and go play. But Peter wouldn't do it. He was going to give that candy to the girls himself. He sat down in the big chair to wait with the candy in his lap. He went to sleep and dreamed that he had the toy pistol in school and was pointing it at the teacher. It went off with an awful bang and Peter sprang to his feet, scattering candy everywhere.

The awful bang was a terrible clap of thunder and it brought the twin spring from their beds and screaming for Mamma.

"Here's your some candy, girls. Thank goodness you awake at last."

JUST JOKING.

Where the Credit Belonged. A man who had been very ill told a nurse friend that Dr. Jones had brought him through. "No," said the friend. "Prevention brought you through, not the doctor."

"Well, maybe he did, but the doctor will charge for it."—Doctor's Leisure Hour.

In Terms of Operations. "Hardware store Dr. Davist is putting up."

"No, it is."

"I wonder how great an outfit it represents."

"At a rough guess, I should say no less than 50 appendices and perhaps a tumor of two."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Anything. "Doctor, I've just received your bill for the operation you performed on me. Would you cut anything off for me?"

"Yes, my dear sir, anything—an arm or a leg, or what else you may wish removed."—Detroit Free Press.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking books or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, every good indigestion and stomach trouble is removed.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, say, don't care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested food? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. Take one or two in bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 10c and 25c.
